Electives Conference 2018

ELECTIVES – VALUE FOR MONEY, VALUES FOR LIFE

When: Friday 23 November 2018

Where: Woburn House, 20 Tavistock Square, London WC1H 9HD

About this conference

The electives conference is an annual event held by the Medical Schools Council Electives Committee. The theme for this year's conference is "Electives - value for money, values for life." It will explore not only whether an elective is good value for money, but the effect it has on participants skills, career goals and understanding of medicine.

Invitations are open to medical school elective leads and administrative staff, students who have returned from an elective in the last academic year (including graduates) and those who will be going on an elective within the next academic year.

This conference is free to attend for medical students and staff. To reserve your place, please email fahmida.yasmin@medschools.ac.uk

MSC Electives Committee

The Electives Committee consists of the electives leads and administrative staff from UK medical schools. They are national experts who work to improve the value and safety of electives, as well as discuss guidance and standards.

It meets under the auspices of the Medical Schools Council, the membership organisation for UK medical schools.
